When you begin to laugh you begin to heal

WSNAC XXXIII

Presents A Recovery Comedy Spectacular

Saturday, October 15, 2016
Showtime 10:00 PM

Holiday Inn
Manitowoc, WI

Starring

Scott Paparcuri

There are 2 sides to Scott Paparcuri; the performer and the person. Scott the performer has been doing stand-up comedy for over 25 years. He has appeared on HBO, MTV, and the Howard Stern Show. Scott has not had a day job for 20 years. He had a radio show in Connecticut called Kiss in the Morning with Ross, Courtney and Scott. He made over 300,000 a year at one time and still enjoys a large fan base.

Scott Paparcuri, the person, has battled alcohol and drug addiction since he was 16 years old. Scott's addiction credits include; 15 arrests, a dozen rehabs and over 3 years in jail. During the last two years Scott has dedicated himself to his recovery and has succeeded. Now he has become, "The Shephard", reaching out through his comedy to help other addicts. Scott feels laughter is important to recovery. It helps people take a break from the chaos that exists in their head. His message is one of hope with a lot of laughs in between.

Hosted By

Cara Amore

Cara Amore is a recovering alcoholic and stand up comic...which are both funny and tragic. She has been a member of a 12 Step Fellowship in good standing for over 20 years and a stand up comic for over 10 years. Cara's material is based on her life experiences and daily happenings, as well as observations she's made along the way.

Cara was a principal in the acting troupe "Improbable Players" dedicated to educating middle school aged children about alcohol and drug addiction. She was a semi-finalist in the Food Network's "Next Food Star" and winner of the "Ladies of Laughter" in New York. As a result of living a sober life, Cara's greatest accomplishment to date is her son Benjamin.
